PROGRAM PURPOSE

Honors College Ambassadors are a group of Honors student volunteers who are passionate about Honors at Clemson University and the opportunities available to honors students. Honors ambassadors meet with prospective students and their families to provide a student perspective on the various Honors experiences.

Honors Ambassadors are official ambassadors for Honors working in conjunction with the Honors College staff. Honors Ambassadors develop communication, teamwork, and leadership skills as they interact with prospective students and their families.

ROLE AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Honors Ambassadors will enhance the recruitment of Honors students through personal connections with prospective students and their families through recruiting visits, as well as follow up emails. Honors Ambassadors are expected to attend at least two prospective student visits each semester, in addition to other recruitment events. Ambassadors will receive training through a formal training session and observing other ambassadors during their first two recruiting visits and information sessions with honors staff. Honors Ambassadors are expected to participate in the Honors Receptions, Future Tiger Days, and other recruiting events.

TIME COMMITMENT

The Honors Ambassador position is for the duration of your tenure in Honors (during the fall and spring semesters) unless you resign or do not meet the expectations set forth by the Honors College. Although time and day are flexible to your class schedule, the Honors Ambassador will be required to attend all recruiting visits requested by the office staff unless the student is excused for a valid reason upon receiving the request in writing. Ambassadors are also expected to volunteer at least one hour per semester to help with Honors event set up and break down.

BENEFITS

The opportunity to: (1) meet potential Honors Students; (2) improve their public speaking abilities; and (3) co-facilitate visits which improve teamwork and leadership skills.

HAVE QUESTIONS?
Megan Wong, mawong@clemson.edu
Bailey Gibson, begibso@g.clemson.edu