

Dr. Larry
McCollough
Professor Emeritus of Philosophy

A lifelong photographer, Larry McCollough came to art photography after retiring from the philosophy department at Clemson University in 1998. Larry was a professor of philosophy at Clemson for 30 years. He has continued teaching philosophy at the Osher Life Long Learning Institute (OLLI) and is currently instructing a class on the meaning of life.

Larry has exhibited in shows throughout the Upstate including Clemson, Anderson, Belton and Pickens. He has won several awards for his work. Samples of his work can be seen at the Wine Bar in Pendleton and Anderson as well as in the Alumni Restaurant in Clemson and the OLLI Building.

Larry's pieces on at display at the Emeritus College

Iron Against the Sea

Stone Carress