

Nape

The front adorned but never the back; it only gets the clasp. Gather the hair in one fist and lift: a peek at what the guillotine's kissed. Tie a napkin, knot against neck, eggshell white. That delicate runway of skin—a mother's hand cradles there.

A bouquet of veins.